What’s Working Well

- Which SMS 2.0 features are essential in your daily work?
- What’s something it handles surprisingly well?
- What makes SMS 2.0 “feel familiar” or efficient for your users?

Strengths We Must Preserve

What aspects of SMS 2.0 must carry forward?

What do you want us to protect as we move toward cumulative functionality?

What would be a “deal breaker” if it were removed or changed too much?

The Pain Points

Where do you find yourself creating workarounds?

What feels manual today that could be more automated?

What tasks take more steps than you’d like?

Priority Areas

Which areas need the most attention in the next 12–18 months?

Which users (attendance clerks, teachers, admins) are most impacted?

If we could improve one workflow, what should it be?

Future-State Thinking

- Imagine your ideal workflow. What does it look like?
- If you could eliminate one step or friction point, which would it be?
- What would your district celebrate as a success headline in 2029?

Activity

If you had to pick, what would you:

Keep → What must stay

Improve → What could be enhanced

Rethink → What could be redesigned for the future
